Guidance

The Final Guidance on Awards of Grants to Indian Tribes under Section 106 of the CWA (Guidance) provides tribes with information on how to design and implement effective, adaptive and successful water quality programs. The Guidance also provides EPA with a framework of procedures and guidelines for awarding and administering these grants. To meet the needs of tribes at all levels of development, the Guidance presents steps a tribe can take to collect the information it will need to make effective decisions about its water quality program.
